JOHN W. FLEMING
AFRICAN AMERICAN COLLECTION

Stride to Excellence:
Only the Best!
The John W. Fleming African-American Collection is located in the James E. Cheek Learning Resource Center on the second floor. Dr. Fleming contributed books for the collection for many years and taught African Studies during his tenure at Shaw University. We salute Dr. Fleming for keeping us informed and in step with academic trends in learning.

Dr. Fleming is a 1947 graduate of the University and is married to a Shaw alumni. Both are active Alumni Participants.

The collection contains books on all subject areas. The books are arranged on the shelves according to the Library of Congress Classification. All books are cataloged with NCC for circulating and RNC for non-circulating.

ABOUT THE COORDINATOR
The coordinator has over twenty-five years of experience in Library and Academic Collections with Shaw University and has worked with the Curriculum Materials Center from 1979-2002. The Curriculum Materials Center has been relocated to the TOS Education Library.

In 2002 the African-American Collection was moved from the main offices area on the first floor of the library to the second floor of the library. The coordinator has conducted research and reference inquiries for the collection.
